

EMPIRE UNITY EMPHASIZED BY SIR F. DUTTON

Famous British Imperialist
Addressed Canadian Club
MORE CO-OPERATION

Colonies Must Aid Mother
Country in Maintaining the Empire

"The British Empire is the most extraordinary Empire the world has ever known," said Sir Frederick Dutton, Vice-President of the British Colonial Institute, in an address before the McGill Canadian Club last night. "Our problem now is to decide how such an Empire is to be kept together."

Sir Frederick dealt first with the Empire and its connection to the public mind before the war. He mentioned the great crisis of 1914 and the callant way in which the colonies responded to the call of the Mother Country. Since the war the relative position of the Colonies to the Mother Country has been changed, and the great problem that now faces the people of the Empire is how to ensure the co-operation of all the units of the Empire.

In a recent speech in England, Lord Balfour said that it could never be done unless every member of the Empire thought in terms of the whole rather than of the individual. One of the chief objects of the Royal Colonial Institute, at this time, is to reach a decision as to the best method by which this co-operation can be effected. For some time the opinion existed in England that an Empire Parliament was the best solution to the problem. "But," said Sir Frederick, "the sensible person would suggest this today." The only way to attain such an end is by ever increasing meetings and conferences of those in authority in the Colonies. Recent inventions such as the cable and the telegraph, have helped to inform all the Colonial Parliaments of what the Imperial Parliament is doing. "The conferences of the future will be facilitated by the ease of communication due to airships and other fast means of communication," said Sir Frederick. A larger share of responsibility must also be left to the Imperial Parliament, so that, when quick decisions are necessary, as was the case in August, 1914, the active support of the Empire will be assured.

Sir Frederick went on to speak of the educational functions of the Royal Colonial Institute. The library in London, which contains over a hundred and fifty thousand volumes of exclusively Imperial importance, is ranked as one of the most important of these functions. Another educational feature of the Institute is that it is the only place where people can consult all the important newspapers from all parts of the Empire. Over a thousand journals are kept on file, and are open to the public at all times. "The United Empire," the monthly periodical of the Institute is also an important factor in the educational programme. The seasonal meetings, which have been held every year for the last fifty-seven years, and at which papers are read by high authorities on Empire subjects, also play their part in the system.

Various committees, said Sir Frederick, are also at work on problems of Imperial importance. The "Imperial Studies Committee" has investigated the manner in which history is taught in English schools, and has endeavored to make the study of history one to be treated from an Empire viewpoint rather than from the standpoint of the one particular unit. The wonderful collection of slides and lectures, dealing with Empire subjects and donated by the Colonial Office, have been of excellent service in furthering the purpose of the Institute.

Empire Essay Competitions, on the suitable subjects, and divided into three grades, for children sixteen years of age and over, for those from fourteen to sixteen years and for those fourteen and under, have recently been inaugurated, and their popularity has increased surprisingly.

Dealing with a broader aspect of the subject Sir Frederick Dutton said that each member of the Empire now

DIRECTORY LISTS

The class lists for the Students' Directory are in the hands of the class executives. All students should make sure that their names and the necessary information are promptly and correctly entered on these lists. This will greatly facilitate the avoidance of errors and the completion of the lists. Class presidents must see that lists are completely made out by Monday evening, Oct. 26th, and handed in to Miss Heasley at the Union.

OFFICERS FOR 1927 ANNUAL ARE ELECTED

Alan Ross Chosen Editor-in-Chief

OTHER OFFICIALS

Managing Editor for This Year is Ross Harkness of Commerce

With representatives from every faculty present, the initial meeting of the 1927 Annual Board was held yesterday afternoon. Included in the gathering were the Editor-in-Chief and the Business Manager of last year's Old McGill, Bill Shepherd and Ted Harris.

While it may seem on first thought that the time for publication is still a long way off, those who have had anything to do with an undertaking of such a nature realize that the volume of work to be done is great. There are always a number of plans to be thought out before the actual compilation of material begins, and when the articles have all been assembled, there is plenty of revising before the book reaches the hands of the subscribers. The object of the new executive is to try and publish the Annual earlier this session than has been done in the past, while retaining all the features that are of value. Work will be done immediately to get things under way, and before the Christmas vacation much of the details should be completed.

The following is the list of the officers elected from the representatives who were sent to the meeting by their respective faculties:

Editor-in-Chief: Alan Ross, Medicine
Managing Editor: Ross Harkness, Commerce
Associate Editor: E. M. Astwood, Arts
Athletics Editor: D. A. Killam, Science
Publicity Manager: F. A. Edward, Dentistry
Biography Editor: J. G. Porteous, Law
Photography Editor: E. B. Eddy, Technology
Art Editor: E. A. Gardner, Architecture
Secretary: Miss Alice Turner, R. V. C.

Macdonald College Associate Editor: T. A. Heslop, Macdonald College

claims to be an independent nation. This may be true in theory, he pointed out, but is not altogether sound in practice, as all the dominions and colonies are still greatly dependent upon the Mother Country for their subsistence.

It is unwise, thought Sir Frederick, to emphasize the difference brought to light at Locarno. Rather an attempt should be made to introduce an atmosphere of friendly relationship. In conclusion, the speaker stated that "it is the hope and the aim of the Royal Colonial Institute, to maintain the welfare of the Crown and the unit of the Empire, of which the Crown is the connecting link."

Hugh O'Donnell, president of the McGill Canadian Club, presided at the meeting. In introducing the speaker he briefly outlined the aims and objects of the Royal Colonial Institute, of which Sir Frederick Dutton is an important officer, and in a few well chosen words welcomed the distinguished guest to the University.

At the conclusion of the meeting Basil MacLean, president of the Students' Council proposed a vote of thanks to the speaker.

The first affair of romance and poetry never counts; the second is always a thing of deeper and more mature nature.

LETTER WILL EXPLAIN MANY DIFFICULTIES

Former Undergraduate Writes
Regarding M.W.S.S.

UNCERTAINTIES

Many Women do not Know
Exact Constitution of
New Society

In view of the difficulties which are attending the completion of the organization of the McGill Women Students' Society, the following letter, received by the R. V. C. Editor of the Daily, will be of special interest to all women students of the University. The writer of the letter is the Honorary President of the R. V. C. Undergraduates' Society, and formerly took a very active part in all undergraduate affairs.

R. V. C. Editor, "McGill Daily"

Dear Madam: At the meeting of the R. V. C. Undergraduate Society which took place to-day, I believe that some uncertainty was revealed with regard to the Constitution of the McGill Women Students' Society. Having assisted in the drawing up of the same, and having had some connection with it in the past, I thought that I might be able to shed some light on this subject for the benefit of those who, as yet, are not thoroughly familiar with the more intimate details of the Constitution.

I believe that a good deal of the discussion yesterday centered on the personnel of the "Executive". Before elaborating this point it may not be generally understood that in the McGill Women Students' Society, there is, first, an "Executive Council", consisting of, to quote from the Constitution, "The Presidents of the following societies: Athletic Association, Delta Sigma Society, Students' Christian Association, Societe Francaise and the President of any other Society which may be formed having the same status as the existing Societies—the Woman Editor of the 'Daily'—a representative from each of the following Departments and Faculties—Arts, Law, Medicine, Dentistry, Graduate School, School of Social Workers, School of Physical Education, School for Graduate Nurses and Faculty of Music. Each representative shall be a full course student in her faculty or department". Second, there are the officers or "Executive Committee" consisting of the Hon. President, 1st Vice-President, 2nd Vice-President, Recording Secretary, Corresponding Secretary and Treasurer. These offices with the exception of the President are elected by the Council from among themselves and from the "Executive Committee". As this is a point often overlooked, I feel it necessary to bring it before the notice of the student body before proceeding.

To return to the personnel of the Executive Council, it will be seen that Presidents of undergraduate societies are not included. This was not deemed practical because it would necessitate adding at least five more members to what is already a large Executive Council, while in any case provision is made for a representative from each group. Whether or not the various groups elect their respective Presidents as their representatives, or choose as delegate a student who might have more time at her disposal rests with the individual groups. As a rule, the Presidents of undergraduate societies have their time fairly well occupied with the activities of their special societies, to say nothing of the academic side of their Senior Year.

With regards to the question of "Representation by Population" anything of such a nature was not thought advisable or even necessary, by the committee who drew up the Constitution of the McGill Women Students' Society. Not advisable because it again would tend toward an unwieldy Executive Council, and not necessary because it was realized that for some time to come, the R. V. C. will greatly outnumber other Faculties and Departments, and undoubtedly will occupy the Presidencies of the majority of the societies. For example at the present time, the Executive Council numbers fourteen without the President of the M. W. S. S., and of these seven are students of the R. V. C.

Yours sincerely,
PHYLLIS M. MURRAY

SOCCER TEAM TO PLAY IN STATES

One of Regulars Unable to Play

Malcolm D. McLeod, the regular full-back of the McGill Soccer Team, will undergo an operation at the Montreal General Hospital this morning, and will not be able to accompany the team on the American tour. The remaining players will entrain to-night at eight o'clock, and will be away for nearly a week. This trip will provide the first international sport of the college year and the result will be awaited with interest. They will first play at Springfield on the 24th and will then try their strength against Yale on the 26th, finishing up with a match at West Point on the 28th, and arriving back home a day later. The results of this tour will be looked forward to by the college not only because it is the first international sport this year but also because they will show what chances McGill has of winning the games at Kingston next week and thus gaining inter-collegiate championship. Jerry Sparks who has been out to all the practices is chosen to take McLeod's place during the try.

The team which will be made up of the players listed below will leave from Bonaventure Station at 8 o'clock this evening. The following are the names of the players: Amaron, Stephenson (capt.), Kelland, Giovando, Archdale, Helwig, Shippam, Gavin, Sparks, Moffat, Denny, Scott. The boys have been working hard, and under the direct of coach Hay Flahy have developed into an eleven which will probably show the Americans a few things about soccer. Coach Flahy believes that the team has very good prospects this year and is hoped that they will equal or better the performance of last year's champions. The trip will last exactly five days and there will be three games. It is expected that there will be a good attendance at all of these matches because soccer has become very popular in the States. The men on the team are looking forward to three hard tussles but they feel that the Red and White has an even chance. The team will probably line up as follows:

Amaron	Goal
Stephenson	Left fullback
Sparks	Right fullback
Archdale	Centre half
Giovando	Right half
Denny or Kelland	Centre forward
Scott	Inside right
Shippam	Outside right

STRATHCONA HALL HELD BIG BANQUET

Novel Entertainment Feature of Evening

A novel and entertaining after dinner programme was the feature of the Tenth Annual Banquet of Strathcona Hall. Each speaker was introduced by two men with the idea of having a large number of students take part in the activities. G. H. Hammy proposed a toast to the King and N. McLeod responded to a toast to Strathcona Hall which was proposed by Brantley. The gathering then adjourned to the common room.

The remainder of the evening was devoted to talks by prominent men about the hall on various topics of interest. The first of these was given by B. Piddock, who outlined the activities of the Students' Council. Gover summarized the labor situation in Great Britain. Owen talked about the U. B. C. and Helwig spoke about the West Indies. The feature speeches of the evening were three talks given by Fann, Lee, and Fann, who are Chinese Students Abroad, the Shang- (Continued on Page 3)

V. C. Thus, it is obvious that the R. V. C. will be adequately represented on the Executive Council.

I trust that the above facts will help to remove any difficulty which may have arisen through an incomplete knowledge of the underlying things embodied in the Constitution of the McGill Women Students' Society.

Yours sincerely,
PHYLLIS M. MURRAY

MARITIME AND WESTERN CLUBS AMALGAMATE

Joint Council Draws up Constitution

BIG MEETING SOON

Club to Stage Numerous Social Events this Session

Due to the recent approved amalgamation of the Western and the Maritime Clubs a joint council met at Strathcona Hall to draft a constitution for the approval of the new society. The constitution drawn up is briefly as follows:

- 1.—The club is to be known as the McGill Maritime-Western Club.
- 2.—The aim is primarily to further the social relationships of the Maritime and Westerners and to foster a sympathetic understanding of problems of the different groups.
- 3.—The membership will include all students from the Maritimes or from the four provinces West of Ontario. Other students shall be eligible to associate memberships after having been duly nominated and elected by the members.
- 4.—The officers shall be two Honorary Presidents, one from the Maritimes, one from the West; a president vice-president, secretary, and treasurer. There shall be equal representation from the East and West and at least one member shall be a lady.
- 5.—Officers shall be elected at the last meeting in the Spring to hold office for the ensuing year.
- 6.—There shall be a nominal membership fee of fifty cents.

The council then discussed the first big meeting of the amalgamated club. This is to come off soon and is to be a big affair. The ladies are to be there and there are to be refreshments, music and a social gathering after a short business meeting. All Westerners and those from the Maritimes are expected to be present to participate in the general good time. The meeting will be in Strathcona Hall, and members will be duly notified as to the date.

It is understood that this is to be the first of a series of social gatherings. The executive intend to stage social evenings dances, theatre parties, toboggan parties and so on.

PLANS FOR YEAR MADE YESTERDAY

Boxing, Wrestling and Fencing Club Executive Meets

An informal meeting of the Boxing, Wrestling, and Fencing club executive was held yesterday afternoon in the lounge at the Union. A great deal of business was discussed. It was announced that Coach George Smith would be in charge of the wrestling, and Coach Raymond in charge of the fencing. It is not known as yet who will coach the boxing team. Each one of these clubs will at any rate be well under way by next week. The first wrestling lesson will be given on Tuesday next at 5 o'clock in the Strathcona Hall. The executive announced that they would again have the popular smokers with others of the city clubs, and they would have tournaments with many of the city organizations, such as the M. A. A. A. and Y. M. C. A.

Another new feature which will be introduced is a series of exhibition matches at the ever-popular jazz teas. The captain of the club this year is V. A. Snow, Med '27, the manager P. S. Phelps, and assistant manager C. Brain. The prospects are bright indeed for a triumphant year in each one of the sections of the club. However, due to the graduation of several members of last year's team, new members are urgently requested to appear at practices. No previous training is required, because more than ever will lectures be given to beginners in lessons in the many art of self-defense. It is not a matter of being used as a sparring partner by more experienced men, but of watching new men against men of their own weight and experience.

Tom Moore, the Irish poet, was a grocer's son short of stature and of insignificant appearance.

COLLEGE LEADERS

Leaders of undergraduate activities are reminded that an index system is maintained for their use at the Secretary's office in the Union. This card index lists the abilities and preferences of each individual student, the cards being made out of registration. There has been little demand for this service, and it is pointed out that of great help to all leaders looking for supporters for their activities a perusal of this index would be of use.

SUCCESS OF FIRST DANCE NOW ASSURED

Fred Gross and his Orchestra To Play

AT 8.30 SHARP

Only Fifteen Tickets Remain For Those Who are Lucky Ones

The same orchestra as so delighted those who attended the jazz tea yesterday will play to-night at the only informal dance of the Fall term. Yes, sir, Fred Gross's Super-Syncopaters will lead the merry jazz-frenzies in their high-stepping this evening. There are only fifteen tickets left, so anyone wanting one may get one if he calls at the Tuck Shop before one o'clock. To cooperate more closely with the social functions committee, the dance will start sharply at 8.30 and conclude at 1 a.m.

Just recently the House committee spent some money to buy the best Belgian cloth for the billiard tables, and they would be pleased if those attending the dance would consider this, and guard against spilling lemonade, or throwing cigarette ashes on the billiard tables, or sitting on the edges in such a way as to spoil the cushions.

The only other dance put on by the house committee will be a formal dance on December 11th. The programme for to-day's dance is as follows:

Extra Fox Trot
1—Waltz
2—Fox Trot
3—Fox Trot
4—Waltz
5—Fox Trot
6—Fox Trot
7—Fox Trot
Supper
8—Fox Trot
9—Waltz
10—Fox Trot
11—Fox Trot
12—Waltz.

Mr. Honess, or "Pierre" will supply the refreshments in his usual able manner.

PLAY FOR RUTTAN GOLF CUP BEGINS

McGill Team in Toronto For Intercollegiate Title

At eleven o'clock last night, the McGill Golf Team left for Toronto to play in the intercollegiate meet for the Ruttan trophy emblematic of the intercollegiate golf championships. This handsome cup has been in the possession of Toronto for the past year and victory for McGill would be a very significant event, as such well-known players as Don Currier, Canadian Amateur Champion and Freddie Lyons make up a very formidable team for the present champions.

The play will take place to-day and to-morrow. The Daily will receive the results at the end of each day's play. The first round and perhaps the second will be played today. The whole team had a light round on the Royal Montreal course yesterday, and they will be in the very best of form for to-day's tournament.

The players will play in the following order:—W. B. Allen, W. A. Clark, John Marler, T. B. Walsh, Willie Wilson and Jim Eriksen.

TARIFF ISSUE FOUGHT OUT BY ECONOMISTS

Godine, Forsey and Levy Spoke

GOOD AUDIENCE

Economics Club Speakers Debated Political Points of Issue

The tariff question proved to be the great question around which the impassioned eloquence of the three speakers at the Economics Club last night flamed and sparkled. Godine maintained that the Liberals wholly refused to commit themselves, upholding the cautious view of the middle course. Forsey for the Conservatives and Levy for the Progressives were diametrically opposed on free trade and a high protective tariff. Forsey proclaimed that to vote for the Liberal policy of low tariff was the first step toward economic if not political annihilation by the United States, and Levy as ardently urging that protection had the same effect on industry as the depreciation of currency. "Manufacturers," he said have always raised their prices as high as their protection.

There proved to be little disagreement on the much mooted question of the railways. The Conservatives stood for a little more retrenchment in capital outlay, while Godine, strange to say, availed himself of his traditional privileges as a Liberal to disagree with his leader on the question of the Hudson Bay Railway in denouncing the project as unfeasible. Forsey upheld his leaders view of a moderate outlay on this latest off-spring of Canada's White Elephant. Levy, of course expressed the progressive approval of this scheme, as affording an outlet to the sea for produce which otherwise would have to travel a thousand miles to the Pacific or three thousand miles overland to the Atlantic Ocean on the way to its world markets.

Dr. Leacock spoke for a few minutes before the speakers put forward their platform speaking of the change in University studies from the times when Sir William Dawson was principal. In those days no one would dare raise any question any closer at hand than the execution of King Charles. Today however, with the change of ideas, it is considered appropriate to discuss affairs of the day providing that "None of the mind sings so plentifully in the outside world men shovelled around here" as Dr. Leacock expressed it. The discussion was on economic questions, and personalities were taboo, he emphasized.

Godine was the first speaker, opening his discussion with a brief statement of the position of the Liberals. "The Liberals are not bent on destroying the boot and shoe industry," he stated. "Contrary to the statements of the Montreal Star, and Gazette." He emphasized the fact that the problems of Canada are perennial and periodic and a study of the past was often of the greatest use in studying these problems. "The Liberals do not stand for free trade," he said on the one hand they have the needs of the West to consider, and on the other the needs of the East. They have wisely chosen the middle course, the path of give and take, of compromise. He condemned the high tariff on the ground that it meant higher prices for protected goods and higher taxation to make up for loss of revenue on import duties. Canada should not try to develop a hot-house market by her own but should depend on her natural resources, was his plea. The Liberal's reply to the example of high tariff policy of the United States was to examine the states of United States industries. He proved that the woolen industry the most highly protected in the U. S. was in a very bad state other examples were also shown. In the course of his address he covered the needs of the West, East, and Maritimes and discussed the railway situation, defending the policy of King in every respect save that of the Hudson Bay Railway.

Forsey, the Conservative speaker, denounced vigorously the "weak-kneed vacillating uncertain" King policy. "There is no middle course," said he "It is either free trade or protection. King's attitude is that of free trade." Underlying the Conservative (Continued on Page 3)

MONTREAL, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1925.

A COLLEGE EDUCATION.

There have been many who have, in the past, stated very definitely their views on the advantages or disadvantages of a college education. So it is not with the intention of stating something new that we attempt to sum up our views on it; rather it is in the earnest hope that those who are now at college may think their way to their own conclusions, after having seen a viewpoint from which to start.

It would seem that the time spent at college should be a time, essentially, for the mind to become broadened by a vision of the great truths of art and science. This vision is, of course, gained slowly and often through processes that seem principally mechanical; but only as it becomes a real part of the person who receives it does it confer a lasting benefit on him, and through him, on others. And so the dull mechanical drudgery might well be accepted with a little better grace, since it is only after digging through a lot of dirt that one finds the gold.

The opportunity which a college education offers to all who are interested in physical as well as mental development is not to be lightly passed over. Seldom, if ever, in the history of the world, was there a time when less physical exertion was demanded of the average individual than at the present. Rapid and cheap transportation, wholesale labour-saving devices, and great changes in the attitude towards organized athletics, have resulted in the possibility of going from year to year without utilising more than a ridiculous fraction of available muscular energy. But for the college student this is not—or should not be—so; all the various forms of athletics are to be found, and extra-curricular time may well be employed on a playing-field or a gymnasium floor. A real chance exists for the development of a sane attitude towards physical culture in the broadest sense that will stand one in good stead throughout life.

What many graduates look back on as the greatest opportunity of a college education is that of meeting all kinds of men and women, and finding among them those who will form one's circle of friends. The years spent at college are those in which the mind is well able to make contacts with like minds readily, and in which therefore friendships are easily cemented. The joys of true friendship cannot be underestimated, but neither can they well be described; suffice it to say that the many clubs and societies of various kinds provide the medium through which many very real friendships are discovered.

What we have said has been put in the most general terms; if the thoughts expressed serve to classify the ideas of any who came to college with little idea of what was involved, or to mystify any who thought that a college education meant something entirely different, they will have served their purpose.

First And Second Year Men At Gymnasium Now

Early yesterday morning a group of students might have been seen making its way towards the west door of the Arts Building and entering the ancient and honourable Molsop's Hall. If an observer had been present, he would have found out that this particular group did not remain long in the building; but he would have also discovered that at intervals throughout the day similar bodies of undergraduates straggled in, remaining for a short time, and then left.

The students under observation would have been found, upon interrogation, to belong to the first and second years of the faculties from which they came. For the auspicious occasion was the re-opening of the gymnasium classes for the winter season. The reason why the budding indoor athletes did not stay long was that the classes are at present only in the stage of organization, and the time to-day was spent in allotting boxes and generally preparing for the more serious work. It is understood, however, that almost immediately the real physical work will be undertaken; as is well-known to most students, physical training in some form to the extent of two hours per week throughout the year is required of all first and second year men. This, of course, may be taken in many forms, of which gymnasium is only one. It has been found in past years, however, that there are always a large number of men left for the gym classes, after credit has been given to all those who have qualified in other ways.

LIGHT SIGNAL PRACTICE FOR SENIOR SQUAD

Grideron Gus says:—

The Seniors got off easy yesterday and only a light workout was required of them by the coach. Most of the time was spent in light signal practice and running with the ball. As far as condition is concerned, there seems to be nothing more for the squad to do and the coach is turning all his attention to perfecting the speed of the plays.

When the squad hook up with Queen's tomorrow they will be without the services of Gordie Hughes who is at present a patient in the Montreal General Hospital with a bad knee. Allen will probably be used in his place and Jack Little the Intermediate outside can also step in at the end position.

It is rumoured that the coach after watching the Intermediates perform on Wednesday may take some of these men along to Kingston with the team. If this happens, it will weaken the second team for tomorrow's game with U. of M. but even though the French squad wins it will not affect the championship as it is already won. The Intermediates must likely to go are Wright, Parsons, Gorrle and Tucker.

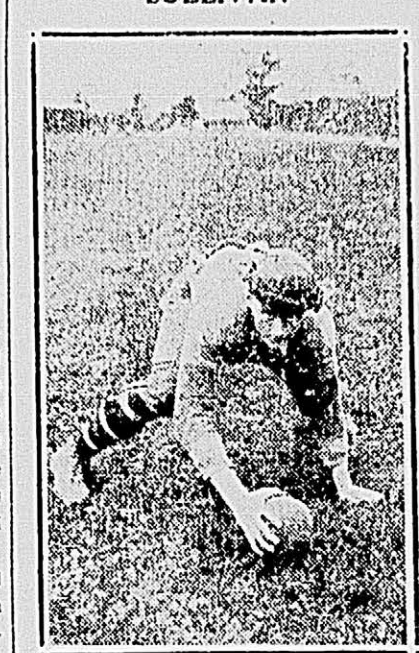

There has been a lot of war-whooping about "On to Kingston" lately and it's not a bad idea at all. When Varsity played down in Kingston a few weeks ago a hundred and fifty Toronto rooters were at the game to cheer on the team. There will be at least three busses making the trip to Kingston and if any one wants to go the chance is there, for as these who tried it last year will tell you it is too far to walk.

Our gallery today is embellished with the portrait of "Sully" Sullivan the snappy snap. "Sully" is a freshman at McGill this year and has made the senior grade in his first year at college. Not many players can boast of as much. Sully used to play for Montreal High and also figured in the M. A. A. A. Intermediate line-up. He weighs in the vicinity of two hundred pounds, and in running a tight pace with Spears for the heaviest man on the team. Sullivan has been a find for Coach Shughnessy and this fall stepped right into the hole left by Alec Moore who graduated last spring.

I would like to announce that Pleskin Pete, my estimable co-worker in touches and rouges, will do his stuff tomorrow. The fact is, I am going to the Fresh-Soph dance and will be discussing other rouges. I merely mention Pleskin Pete's effort as I do not want you to think that I wrote what I know he's going to write. I take great pride in everything I write—acknowledges it all the more that them

Chinese Graduates of Nanking University, sent here by the Chinese Government to study Canadian railways. They spoke on the following subjects: Chinese Students Abroad, the Shanghai Student Movement, and Chinese Literature and Music. Enol Amerson gave the final talk which explained exactly what the S. C. A. meant and what it stood for. Musical numbers were kindly contributed by Kellam, Sutherland, Grenier, Baronsky, and Sweet.

There was an extremely good turnout, nearly every resident being present, as well as about half a dozen guests. Consequently it was the most successful banquet ever held in the history of the Hall. The success of this occasion is due to the brilliant efforts of G. B. Ramsey, P. D. Taylor, and F. S. Howes.

vative and Liberal attitudes were two very different ideals. That of the Liberals was to be the bearer of wood and the drawer of water for the States. The Conservative aim, he stated was to provide local markets for local industries. Forsey's most startling statement was that free trade led inevitably towards economic if not political annexation. "With the Liberals," he said "All roads lead to annexation." Economy was to be a feature of the Meighan administration.

Levy ably upheld the Progressive western attitude of free trade for world markets for the produce of the West. For the same reason he wished the Hudson Bay Railway completed. The west has raised more wealth than the rest of Canada and received the least for it. The reason for this were three fold. Transportation, farmers credit and the Tariff were responsible in the course of his address. Levy pleaded for the revenue Tariff only for remedy of the Tariff situation for farmers and for the support of the farmers' need of free trade against the artificially fostered industries need of protection. "I have spoken with all the energy of which I am capable," he finished, "but a little which and you will settle down into selfish smug complacency thinking only of the needs of Ontario and Quebec."

Debate was taken up after refreshments, in which Darwin effectually quenched his hecklers while upholding the Progressive.

The meeting was further enlivened by a match—splitting contest between a certain Associate Professor and a Sessional Lecturer. Final score was Assoc. Prof.—3 Lecturer—7.

EMPLOYMENT BUREAU TO ASSIST STUDENTS

One of the many ways in which the executive council of the Students' Society is serving the student body this session is in the establishment of an up-to-date, and efficient Employment Bureau. For many years this has been considered to be a very real need in the University, and it has been partially filled in other ways, notably by the co-operation of the Graduates' Society in assisting undergraduates to obtain positions. Many times, too, candidates for executive offices have expressed in their platforms a vague hope that such a project might be realized in their period of office. Difficulties of one kind and another until now

LECTURES
The following course of lectures is designed specially for cadets who are studying for their captains' or lieutenants' certificates. It will have prevented the actual carrying-out and it has remained for the Council of 1925-26 to take the definite steps.

The office of the Employment Bureau is situated to the left of the ticket office in the lobby, and has already been patronised by a considerable number of students desiring part-time jobs. As the applicant enters the office, he receives a statement giving the purpose of the Employment Bureau and the requirements for its successful carrying-on. He then receives a form to fill out, on which he may state what lines of work he has done previously, and what lines would appeal to him most. A timetable form is also included, so that the secretary may know what time the applicant has available. It is very probable that, before the end of the present session, the Council will have some interesting figures regarding the number of men who desire to work part of the time during their time at the University.

Lieutenants' certificates, but is of general interest to all cadets.

Given
1. Fighting Troops and their characteristics—Lt. Col. R. R. Thompson, M.C.
To be given Monday Oct. 26, 5.15 p.m., Room 31 Engineering Bldg.
2. Platoon Organization and Training for Battle—Lieut. Creighton.
Dates to be arranged for the following.

3. Company and Battalion Organization and Training for Battle.
4. Information and Reconnaissance.
5. Topography (4 lectures).
6. Marches and March Discipline.
7. Characteristics and Tactics of a Lewis gun.
8. Protection on the Move: Advance, Flank and Rear Guards.
9. Protection at Rest.
10. Platoon and Company in Attack.
11. Platoon and Company in Defence.
12. Reports and Operation Orders.
13. Military Law (3 lectures).
14. Sanitation in the Field and Barrack Discipline.
15. Interior Economy: Supplies of Rations, Ammunition, etc. in the Field.
16. Tactical Schemes on Maps (4 periods).
17. Examination Papers (2 periods).

These lectures, etc., will be given throughout the session and all cadets should endeavour to attend as many as possible of them, whether they are going in for their Lieutenants' or Captains' Certificates this term, or not.

Law '26.

The Editor,
McGill Daily.

Dear Sir:—As a graduate, I wish to protest against yesterday's editorial on "Canada's Crisis." With all due deference to your judgment in inserting it, that article seemed to me totally out of place in a College paper. The "Daily" is perfectly entitled to urge the students to take an active part in public affairs. It would be failing in its duty if it did anything else. But neither the "Daily" nor any other College publication has any right to act as a party organ. The editorial of yesterday, especially in its reference to the tariff, is an unwarranted and unpardonable attack on the opinions of Liberal students.

For my own part I am a Conservative and Protectionist, quite as much opposed to the present Government as the writer of "Canada's Crisis." But I question whether he will do much good to the cause he wishes to serve by making such wild statements as those of yesterday. What does he mean, for example, by Canada's outside Debts? If he means Government debts, they are included in his other figures. If he means Canadian bonds and shares held abroad, is it fair to include this figure as part of our national debt in comparison with those of other countries?

The references to the C. N. R. are grossly unfair, to put it mildly. Much of the capital expenditure was made years before the Government ever touched the Canadian Northern or Grand Trunk, and the blame rests on the shoulders of inefficient private enterprise. Capital expenditures since 1921 amount to $176,000,000, which is large enough, goodness knows. Some of that expense may have been unjustified, but much of it was necessary to put the road in good condition and much of it has been justified by results. The statement that the C. N. R. is making an "operating loss of $10,000 an hour" is a damnable lie. $10,000 an hour is $87,600,000 a year; the fact is that in the last three years the C. N. R. has made an operating profit of $40,000,000 and this year will probably make at least another $20,000,000. The deficits are due to fixed charges for a large part of which the Government is not responsible.

Conditions in Canada are quite bad enough without this blatant exaggeration. Canada McGill and the Conservative Party, have nothing to gain, but everything to lose from such tactics, I am sure.

Yours very truly,
EUGENE FORSEY

Daily has at last gone into politics.

What I am referring to is the "Death Whispering" editorial which appeared in to-day's issue. I admit that the editorial would make a first-class political advertisement and would rank fairly well with all the political bunk we hear shot at us from right and left, thru advertisements and thru the partisan press of this city. The writer only let out one thing; he forgot to state at the end "Vote for the man who supports the Patenaude policies."

God knows there are enough crape hangers parading around the country preaching blue ruin, economic disaster, insolvency and bankruptcy and to crown it all that Canada will eventually be taken over by the great U. S. A. to pay for our debts.

Now, the great body of McGill men who are indeed Canada's hope of the future, are, I believe, intelligent men, and are able to think for themselves. But Mr. Editor can you tell me how is it with all our staggering debts, blue ruin and economic chao, that the Canadian dollar is at premium on the money markets of the world, and that this great wealthy tax-free nation to the south of us is at present shipping gold bullion from Wall Street to Montreal in order to pay us the exchange premium on our money?

How is it that our balance of trade was never so great or favorable at present, than at any time in our history?

How is it that the prices of stocks, industrial public utility, power and Banks, were never so high as they are now?

No, Mr. Editor Canada's international position is economically sound. This is readily proved by the fact that Canadian loans on Wall Street are looked upon as being the most secure, and command the lowest rate of interest of any Country in the world, ranking in this respect with that country's liberty bonds.

It is true that Canada has a national debt, which is indeed a staggering load for a small population such as we have, to bear. But remember Mr. Editor there was a war and in that war Canada paid dearly out of blood and treasure, and we have inherited a huge debt therefrom. Great problems confront us, it is true, but these gigantic tasks will be tackled by men who have true Canadian spirit behind them, and who are full of optimism for Canada's future.

We have the making of a great nation backed up by unlimited resources, and with greater population we will become one of the greatest nations in the world, because the people who comprise this population are taken from the very best stock in the world.
